

HOMESCHOOLING CHILDREN WITH DYSLEXIA

Kathy Kuhl offers creative solutions for parents teaching children with learning challenges. She provides parents resources, support, and insight. A veteran homeschooler and former teacher, she knows the help you need.

After homeschooling her son (a creative, distractible dyslexic with great perseverance), Kathy interviewed 64 parents homeschooling students with diagnosed learning disabilities. Parents began seeking Kathy's advice. Her encouragement is rooted in experience and research.

She can help you customize your children's education to their needs, strengths, and gifts.
